1 Facebook Data collection

Facebook was Running an experiment to see how people would respond to what they post on their news feed. It turned out that people with negative news feeds would post more negative comments, and were in bad mood. Although it was not illegal to do so the problem with this is the simple fact that people did not know they were being experimented on. This can be dangerous when playing people moods, because of many complication. For example, What if a person maybe had job interview and being a bad mood could affect their performance. Although data was not being miss used, the way got the data was unethical in my opinion.

2 Conclusion

Although the data that was found did prove that bad news feed affected the individual, it was not ethical to collect data without the person consent. therefore not giving the user the ability to stay away from Facebook until the experiment was done. I feel that is an important thing know because when collected data we should ensure the safety, and well being of a person depending on the cost.
